A Word from the Staff

Because our efforts have stemmed primarily from a desire to serve the students of the University of Arkansas School of Medicine, it is hoped that the '53 Caduceus is especially enjoyed by them.

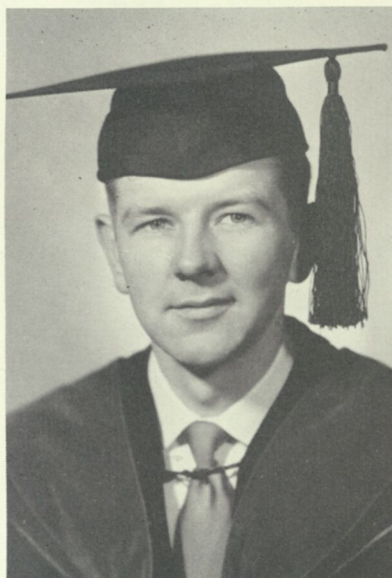

This year's edition is unique in that for the first time the Arkansas School of Pharmacy is also represented in our annual. We welcome them and thank them for their assistance in publishing that section of the Caduceus.

While it is customary to formally dedicate each year's edition to some esteemed friend or group with which we are associated, we alter tradition to dedicate this year's to the students of medicine—to those of us who give this publication a purpose.

Pharmacy

The School of Pharmacy was established in September, 1951 as a new major division of the University of Arkansas, upon specific authority of the 1951 session of the General Assembly of Arkansas.

Students are offered a minimum program of study consisting of one year pre-pharmacy and three years of pharmacy leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy. The basic years of the course are given on the main campus at Fayetteville to give the student better preparation in those foundational subjects which contribute to the training of Pharmacists as citizens as well as members of the health profession.

The advanced professional training is given at the University's Medical Center in Little Rock. Advantage is taken of the facilities of the University's School of Medicine, various hospitals, numerous retail and wholesale pharmaceutical outlets, the State Board of Health, and the Arkansas Pharmaceutical Association, in order to give the pharmacy student a breadth of understanding of his profession, and an appreciation of the manner in which pharmacy ties in with the general program of medical care and the maintenance of public health.

The 1953 School of Pharmacy Seniors will be the second class to graduate. The first class graduated at the termination of the Spring Semester 1952. Both of these classes consist mainly of students who transferred to the University's School of Pharmacy from the discontinued Department of Pharmacy at the College of the Ozarks.

Administration

STANLEY G. MITTELSTAEDT, PH. D.
Assistant Dean, School of Pharmacy

The chief purpose of every publication like the "CADUCEUS" stems from the desire to preserve and record the significant school events for future preservation. Herein are found the activities of the students and faculty who together have worked and played and whose daily paths have merged in the fields of Medical and Pharmaceutical learning. As time passes on and our memories gradually fade, we shall be able to meet our friends again on the pages of the "CADUCEUS".

It is a real pleasure to have a part in this the first publication recording the events of the School of Pharmacy of the University of Arkansas.

Takes A Personal Interest In Your Problems

Although we may be many miles apart, we at Stover's want you to feel that we have a personal interest in your problems of equipping your office. If you have any question, and our salesman is not available at the time you want this information, please feel free to write or phone us, collect, and we assure you that your letter or phone call will have the most careful, personal attention.

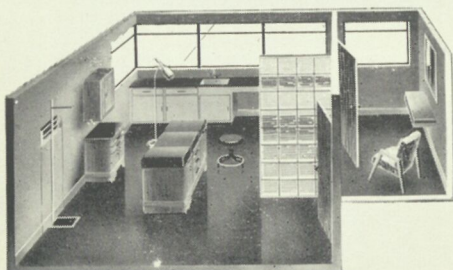

In the past ten years we have become one of the largest dealers in the United States, with the finest facilities and most modern display rooms, and are so organized that you can call upon us for prompt and complete information.

PROFESSIONAL OFFICE SHOULD WORK FOR YOU!

Your professional office is more than a work-place . . . It is both a contributor to your progress and a yardstick to your success as a physician.

Your professional office should work for you. As the place where you spend most of your time, it should yield maximum service with minimum effort. Faulty space planning, bad furniture arrangement, poor lighting, noise, and dismal decor impair the efficiency of your work.

Your professional office should impress rather than depress your patients. A shabby, run-down, disorganized office is not consoling to patients suffering pain or physical discomfort. Nor does it inspire their confidence in you.

Your professional office should reflect your personality . . . either in decorative theme or in display of hobby items suggesting your personal activities. Choice of colors, pictures, plants, and furnishings indicates your personal taste. Good taste is not lost upon your patients.

Favorable Patient Reaction . . .

The trend toward better planned and equipped doctors' offices has been gaining such impetus that no progressive doctor can afford to postpone the practical advantages to be gained through modernizing his office. Patients are quick to recognize the improved service they receive in well-equipped offices . . . and equally quick to sense the handicaps of obsolete furniture and equipment.

People judge a doctor to a great extent by the appearance of his office. If they get impressions of efficiency, sanitation, convenience, and good organization, they talk favorably . . . and on such impressions a sound practice can be built and maintained. Without the confidence and enthusiasm of all patients, a doctor's future standing in his profession is jeopardized.
